Khrush Sails For Visit To United States

Communist Leaders To Arrive In N.Y. On September 19

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev sailed Friday night for New York and the United Nations to lead the Communist bloc in pressing a five-point program before the forthcoming General Assembly.

After an informal sendoff and a short jet flight from Moscow, the Soviet leader sailed from the Baltic port of Kaliningrad aboard the Soviet passenger ship Baltika, the official news agency Tass reported.

Accompanying Khrushchev on the 10-day voyage to New York are Janos Kadar of Hungary, Todor Zhivkov of Bulgaria and Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej of Romania. They are the Communist leaders in their countries. Tass made no mention of the Communist leaders of Czechoslovakia, Albania and Poland, also heading for New York to back up Khrushchev.

Due On Sept. 19

The Baltika, formerly named the Vyacheslav M. Molotov until that Soviet statesman was downgraded in 1957, is due in New York Sept. 19, the day before the General Assembly opens.

Khrushchev is planning to renew his campaign for "general and complete" disarmament on Soviet terms that he outlined in a speech to the assembly just a year ago.

But the Communist bloc also is working for five specific objectives. They are:

Winning U.N. condemnation of American aggression as charged by the Soviet Union, setting up a program of aid to the newly independent African nations, establishing zones throughout the world where nuclear weapons will be banned, obtaining a U.N. guarantee for the Oder-Neisse boundary that pushed Poland's frontier westward into a large part of pre-war Germany, and rallying U.N. backing for a vague item called "the education of youth for peace."

Sending Chiefs

All the Communist countries in the United Nations are sending their chiefs in response to Khrushchev's call for a mass summit meeting of the leaders of all U.N. member governments.

Communist China is not a U.N. member but the Communists will do their best to remedy that by asking the world organization to admit the Peiping government, a topic shelved without U.N. action for years.

Coal Output Shows Decline

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bituminous coal output in the week ended Sept. 3 dropped to 7,600,000 tons from 7,790,000 tons a week earlier and compared with 7,345,000 tons in the same week last year, the National Coal Association reported Friday.

Year-to-date output of soft coal approximated 278,107,000 tons compared with 274,068,000 tons in the similar period of last year.

Nixon Leaves Hospital, Plans Rest At Home

Doctors earlier had pronounced him in good shape to kick off his fall campaign, a Nixon aide said.

The vice president had been due to leave the hospital Saturday but the doctors agreed to let him go home Friday night. Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press secretary said.

"He plans to rest at home over the weekend and may go to the office Saturday," Klein said. Nixon hurt his knee on an automobile door at Greensboro, N.C. Aug. 17.

Klein said the vice president's recuperation was just as doctors had forecast and they believe "he will be in good shape to go through this campaign as scheduled."

The Republican presidential nominee will start out Monday from Baltimore's Friendship Airport, where Klein said one of the biggest GOP rallies of the year will be held.

President Eisenhower and other top Republican leaders will be on hand for the start of Nixon's 9,000-mile, week-long campaign trip through 15 states.

Klein has said that although Nixon's hospital stay will not interfere with his campaign schedule it will prevent the vice president from mixing with people as he had originally planned.

Naval Maneuvers

PARIS (UPI) — Naval units from the United States, Britain, France, Italy, Turkey, and Greece will take part in operation "Medflex Hold" from Sept. 20 to Oct. 1, it was announced at NATO headquarters here.

A NATO spokesman said the maneuvers will test the efficiency of allied Mediterranean fleet units and their ability to work together.

Higher Interest Offered For World War II Bonds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The department expects the actual interest rate to be less than that. He said that if $3 billion of the World War II bonds are exchanged, the Treasury will feel it has achieved substantial extension of the national debt.

The offer was made to holders of $12.4 billion of wartime bonds which normally would mature between 1962 and 1969.

These bonds carry 2½ per cent interest coupons. The old bonds may be exchanged for three new issues, paying 3½ per cent interest, which will mature between 1980 and 1998.

Under Secretary of the Treasury Julian B. Baird said the Treasury is prepared to issue about $6.5 billion of the new bonds. However, he indicated the

Hurricane Headed For Florida Keys

BULLETIN
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The advance winds of Hurricane Donna slammed into the Florida Keys Friday night at 100 miles an hour.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Donna headed straight for the Florida Keys Friday night, aiming the full force of its 135 mile-an-hour winds at the little islands curving southwest from the mainland.

The killer storm declined slightly in intensity, dropping from an earlier velocity of 150 m.p.h. but also slowed its forward movement from 12 to 9 m.p.h.

This means the exposed and low-lying keys will be subjected to Donna's fearful battering for a longer period than had been expected.

Hurricane warnings were flying from Key West northward to Fort Lauderdale on Florida's east coast and to Punta Gorda on the Gulf of Mexico side.

Along one edge of its path were the Miami-Fort Lauderdale area with well over one million residents, thousands of vacationists, and many thousands of homes which have been built since this resort center was last combed by a hurricane 10 years ago.

Many of those dwellings are on comparatively low land. If Donna, which has flooded every land area in its path so far, pours over the south Florida the heavy rains expected water damage might be extremely high.

At least 116 persons have been killed by the tropical storm as it wended its way with maddening slowness through the islands of the Caribbean.

At latest report the Weather Bureau said the center of the storm was approximately 146 miles south-southeast of Miami and 135 miles east-southeast of Key West.

Growing slightly in intensity as it edged away from the north Cuba coast towards the United States, Donna forced hurricane warnings Friday as far north as Fort Lauderdale on the east coast and Punta Gorda, 24 miles north of Fort Myers on Florida's Gulf coast.

Winds of 75 m.p.h. or more fan out 125 miles to the northeast and 80 miles to the southwest of the heart of the storm.

The storm veered slightly northward Friday morning, cocking its knockout punch at the heart of the keys—the string of tiny islands which stretch southwest from the tip of the mainland down to historic Key West.

Residents of the keys were urgently advised to seek safety at once. Some 30 blocks of the lowest sections of Key West were evacuated before noon.

Advance squalls of driving rain cut visibility to almost zero in Miami during the early afternoon.

The south Florida area has not experienced a severe tropical storm since 1950. More than half of the residents of the area have come here since the last hurricane.

Five September hurricanes of the past, in 1926, 1928, 1933, 1945 and 1947, took 2,491 lives in south Florida.

FBI Arrests Ohio Man In Bank Holdup

DAYTON (UPI) — Local police and FBI agents late Friday arrested Harry Eugene Higfill, 32, formerly of Dayton, at his hotel room for the $53,000 robbery of the Canton (Ohio) National Bank two days ago.

Ed Mason, special agent-in-charge at Cincinnati, said Higfill, alias Jimmy Crane, was arrested by officers posing as room service bellboys with the beer he had ordered brought to his room.

An undetermined amount of money was found in a suitcase hidden under a bed. Also found was a blue steel-revolver believed used in the holdup.

The FBI said Higfill had no prior record of bank holdups and his only police record was of a minor nature. He lived here until the past year, one time operating a bar, before moving to Canton where he was arrested on an intoxication charge a month ago.

The FBI did not disclose how Higfill was traced here. He was believed en route to Miami, Fla. Higfill was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Robert Snell for return to Canton.

He was the object of a search since a neatly-dressed, masked gunman forced his way at closing time into the West Trust Branch of the Canton National Bank. He fled in a stolen car which was abandoned a few blocks away. Police lost sight of him after a chase through back alleys and over fences.

Loan Office Manager Cecil Stevens said he was forced to open a door leading from the office into the bank minutes after it had closed while tellers counted the day's receipts. He then ordered eight employees into the loan office and told the manager to gather up the money in a paper bag.

E. E. Hargett, special agent-in-charge of the Cleveland FBI office, said Higfill would be questioned about the $4,000 robbery of a Cleveland Trust branch bank Aug. 30.

Sen. Kennedy Is Questioned On Religion

Democrat Forces Issue Circular Of Candidate's Replies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The religious issue — officially disowned but persistently present — popped up in minor heckling of Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, as he spoke in California Friday.

The candidate, a Roman Catholic, was speaking at Modesto when an unidentified spectator asked him if he believes all Protestants are heretics.

"No," Kennedy replied, "and I hope you don't believe all Catholics are."

The Massachusetts Senator went on to say the real struggle today is between those who do and those who do not believe in God and that individual faiths are a private matter. The crowd cheered loudly.

Fight Factor

Kennedy is trying to eliminate religion as a major campaign factor and similar appeals have been made by his Republican rival, Vice President Richard M. Nixon. President Eisenhower this week called for disregard of the issue. And Friday former President Harry S. Truman said in New York he hopes it will not be the No. 1 issue.

Democratic headquarters in Washington called attention to a compilation of Kennedy's published replies to the principal questions raised by those opposing election of a Roman Catholic. It was stressed that this leaflet was prepared some time ago and was not intended as a specific answer to a statement released here two days ago by a group of Protestant clergymen and laymen.

Question Leadership

This group, under the leadership of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, New York minister and writer, questioned whether any Roman Catholic president could successfully withstand pressures from the hierarchy of his Church. Specifically, it claimed there would be danger of a breakdown in separation of church and state; diplomatic recognition of the Vatican and federal aid to parochial schools and other church institutions.

The Democratic leaflet contains nothing new but gives negative answers, in Kennedy's words taken from various publications, to all the major questions posed by the Peale group and others.

There have been some 30,000 copies printed for distribution to campaign workers. Apparently Kennedy headquarters looked to it as an interim answer to critics pending Kennedy's personal meeting with a group of Southern Protestant ministers in Houston, Tex., next Monday night.

She is slated to appear on Station JOQR's program, "Midnight Junction," for a month. A JOQR official said she will record her lines in advance in Japanese.

GOP Rally Sneaks Up On Maryland Leaders

BALTIMORE (AP) — What will probably be the highlight of their Nov. 8 election campaign, next Monday's Eisenhower-Nixon-Lodge rally at Friendship International Airport, has sneaked up on Maryland Republican leaders.

The event was originally marked down by them as just another take-off by Vice President Nixon on his presidential campaign after recovery from his knee infection.

Then state party officials received word from national campaign headquarters that Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge, the party's vice presidential candidate, would deliver a few remarks before taking off together.

Next came word that President Eisenhower also would appear at the airport and the event would mark the start of Nixon's full-time campaign.

"Films of Nixon's speech at the airport and of the Maryland kickoff activities will be shown coast-

UN Council Blocks Soviet Veto Efforts

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council Friday blocked a Soviet effort to subject actions of the Organization of American States to the council's veto.

U.S. Chief Delegate James J. Wadsworth accused the Soviet Union of "malicious meddling" and "seeking to use the Security Council as an instrument to advance its own totalitarian designs in the Americas."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov denied such charges. But, beaten on a preliminary vote, he gave up trying to put through a resolution that implied the council had the right to overrule the OAS.

The Soviet resolution endorsed the diplomatic quarantine and arms embargo that the OAS foreign ministers clamped on the Dominican Republic Aug. 20 in San Jose, Costa Rica. It thus indicated that the council had the power to disapprove such decisions as well.

In place of that, the council adopted a rival inter-American resolution by which it merely took note of the OAS action—thus asserting no right of approval or disapproval. This resolution, sponsored by Argentina, Ecuador and the United States, passed on a 9-0 vote with Poland and the Soviet Union abstaining.

The OAS ministers penalized the Dominican Republic after finding that it had sought to overthrow the Venezuelan government and blow up Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt.

Edwards Named Secretary To Guam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Friday appointed Adolph M. Edwards Jr. of Pineville, Ky., to be secretary of the territory of Guam.

Edwards has been serving as associate solicitor in the territory's division of the interior department. He currently lives in Arlington, Va.

At the same time, the President announced the resignation of Marcellus G. Boss as secretary of the territory noting the dedicated service rendered by Boss as secretary and acting governor.

Sends Planes Up To Battle Congo Troops

Swedish Guards Held At Gunpoint During Takeoffs

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Katanga Province defied the United Nations Friday and sent planes aloft to help combat the Congolese army spearhead Premier Patrice Lumumba has sent into the rebel province from the north.

Gunpoint persuasion of U.N. Swedish guards to permit the takeoff of two military aircraft from Elisabethville, Katanga's capital, knocked a hole in the U.N. Command order closing all Congolese airports to non-U.N. traffic. Two more Katanga army light planes defied the ban later in the day.

Lumumba, who doesn't like the order either, has demanded that the United Nations yield control over the airports and Radio Leopoldville or leave the country.

He drew Guinean support in his fight against the U.N. Guinea's Congo mission, headed by Tibou Tounkara, announced it has proposed to President Sekou Toure the withdrawal of the Guinean battalion from Maj. Gen. Carl von Horn's 16,000-man U.N. command. The battalion, totaling 750, is based north of Leopoldville in Equator Province.

Cites UN Support

Tounkara said the withdrawal was proposed because of what he called U.N. support of President Joseph Kasavubu in the government feud that flared Monday. Kasavubu declared Lumumba fired, and Lumumba declared Kasavubu fired. Parliament voided both decrees and said they should keep their jobs. In the interval the U.N. took over Radio Leopoldville and closed the airports.

President Toure, a professed neutralist whose nation has edged toward the Communist bloc since winning freedom from France in 1958, is now in Red China after a visit to Moscow.

(The Belgian radio said Lumumba has fired his foreign minister, Justin Bomboko, and the minister-resident in Belgium, Albert Kelvux. They countersigned the decree by which Kasavubu sought to oust the premier.)

Militarily, the Congo crisis centered, in this 71st day of the territory's life as a free nation, at the frontier of Katanga and Kivu Provinces.

Both are eastern neighbors of battle-torn Kasai, where secessionists are fighting Congolese army units.

Crossed River

U.N. Mali troops based at Kongo, 30 miles south of the border, said 300 or more of Lumumba's infantrymen crossed the frontier river of Luika from Kivu Thursday.

Katanga government sources said the invaders evidently intended to move on Kongo, but failed to get any vehicles across the river and that their advance was stalled. No fighting was reported.

The regime of Premier Moise Tshombe, who declared mineral-rich Katanga independent of the central government in July, said it had to get planes in the air to meet the invasion threat, centered about 450 miles north of Elisabethville.

Castro Admits Guerilla Foes

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro admitted Friday, for the first time, what Cubans have known for weeks—opposition guerrillas are active in the Escambray Mountains of central Cuba.

In one of his more subdued public addresses, he said he was more sorrowful about it than angry.

He promised a television audience the insurgents will be wiped out "as were others in Oriente and Pinar Del Rio provinces." He said he wouldn't even have to mobilize his army.

The fact that anti-revolutionary elements exist seemed to be a hard admission for Castro to make. He spoke up after a personal tour of Las Villas Province, where, he asserted, "a few hundred soldiers or a few thousand of our militia can wipe out those opposition groups."

Castro's announcement makes official the reports that have circulated here for two months—that defectors from his regime have infiltrated the Escambray Mountains, the base Castro's own supporters once used to fight a second front in the war against exiled Cuban President Fulgencio Batista.

Reports here estimate guerrilla strength as high as 1,000 men.

Use Of Church For Elections Is Court Banned

LA PLATA, Md. (AP)—A judge Friday barred the Charles County Board of Election Supervisors from renting church property for election purposes because public building space is available.

Judge Dudley Digges of Charles Circuit Court ruled from the bench after a hearing on a suit filed against the board by Bennett Crain, a La Plata lawyer.

The board had advertised that registration of voters in the county's 5th District would begin Tuesday in the Holy Ghost church at the town of Issue in southern Charles County.

The church also was to be the polling place for the district in this fall's election.

Crain and his attorney, Hyman Pressman of Baltimore, said the plan violated State law requiring location of election and registration facilities in public buildings if available.

The complaint contended a special building for election purposes had been erected in the district at Tompkinsville, two miles north of Issue.

Judge Digges did not direct that the special building be used. Crain told the court a school house was available as a registration and polling place if the building is not suitable.

The board argued the existing building was overcrowded and in need of roof repairs. It had planned to pay $75 to the church for use of its facilities.

The suit against the board was filed last week. Pressman claimed the board's plan was an unnecessary expenditure of public funds.

Marriage Splits Up Identical Twin Sisters

BALTIMORE (AP)—Marriage is splitting up identical twin sisters, Joy and Katherine Finnegan of Baltimore.

The 19-year-old sisters will be married in a double ring (identical) ceremony Saturday in Baltimore.

They will then, for the first time in their lives, be separated and start different lives with new husbands not from the same family.

Joy, the older by six minutes, will become Mrs. Alfred Dean. Kathy, known as "Baby" to her mother, will become Mrs. Robert Shaffer.

The twins will be married in Huber Memorial Church in Baltimore where they were baptized together.

The girls, who think that marriage is "double wonderful," will leave for separate honeymoons after a reception.

Their "going-away outfits" are identical.

Con Who Skipped During Ball Game Is Recaptured

FREEMONT, Ill. (AP)—A convict who fled a West Virginia prison after a baseball game last week was back in custody Friday.

Police said Edward L. Bamgardner, 21, of Omaha, Neb., charged with unlawful flight across state lines to avoid confinement, is being held for return to Huttonsville, W. Va., medium security prison.

Bamgardner was catcher for the Huttonsville team during a game at an Elkins, W. Va., prison. While the players were cooling off in a stream, Bamgardner fled.

He eluded a posse, police said, but was apprehended Thursday in Erie, Ill., where relatives reside. He was sentenced in February in Logan, W. Va., to 10 years for burglary, police said, and was to have been eligible for parole next month.

West Agrees To Counter Red Move In Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—The Western powers have agreed on counter-measures against the latest Communist squeeze on isolated Berlin. This was announced Friday night after a series of strategy conferences between Western representatives and officials of the West German government.

The nature of the measures to be taken against the new passes West Germans must have to enter East Berlin was not disclosed. But there has been strong speculation the West will hit back at the East Germany where it will hurt most—by restricting trade.

A U.S. spokesman in Berlin said the countermeasures cannot be disclosed yet because there are several of them and some must be referred to Washington, London and Paris for approval.

Meanwhile, the Western powers delivered to the Russians the second protest within a week against the "flagrantly illegal" action of its East German satellite.

The French commandant, Maj. Gen. Jean Lacomme, took the unusual step of going in person to East Berlin to deliver the protest to the Soviet commandant, Maj. Gen. Nikolai Zakharov. The latter has not yet answered the Allied protest sent to him last week against restrictions the East Germans placed for a brief time on entry of West German citizens into the East sector.

Starting Friday citizens of West Germany who wish to visit relatives, do business or just go sightseeing in Berlin's Soviet sector must apply for permission beforehand. The Communists opened five control points, at which police permits valid for 12 hours may be obtained. Normally about 2,000 West Germans a day visit the Eastern sector of the city.

West Berlin newspapers called for a trade boycott of East Germany.

What bothered some Berliners was what might happen in the future. If the Communists could get away with barring West Germans from the East part of the city, they could bar West Berliners tomorrow—and Allied troops the day after.

C&O To Seek Less B&O Stock

NEW YORK (AP)—The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway will settle for ownership of a lot fewer Baltimore & Ohio Railroad shares than it originally sought.

Walter Tuohy, president of the Chesapeake, told newsmen Friday that between 22 and 23 per cent of outstanding Baltimore shares had been tendered to it.

Tuohy said he was "highly satisfied" with this amount.

In its original offer to Baltimore shareholders, the Chesapeake stipulated it reserved the right to withdraw the offer unless 80 per cent or more of the Baltimore shares were tendered.

The Chesapeake offer expires Monday, Sept. 12, but it can be extended.

Tuohy left the impression that the road would extend the offer and that it would continue to go after the 80 per cent mark, or as close to it as possible. Meanwhile, it was content with what it had got.

The Chesapeake offer has been met by one from the New York Central, which has not revealed how many shares have been tendered to it. The Central offer expires Sept. 26.

"The biggest problem we've had to face," Tuohy said, "is apathy upon the part of Baltimore stockholders."

Tuohy said that when the Chesapeake made its offer to Baltimore stockholders in June "we really thought we would get 80 per cent." That was before the Central offer.

Ownership of 80 per cent was important because it would have permitted consolidated balance sheets, which would have left the Chesapeake not subject to taxes on any Baltimore dividends received.

If the Chesapeake is to extend its offer to Baltimore shareholders, it will have to take action Monday. This can be done by directors.

Pleads Guilty

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Margaret D. Parks pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court Friday to a charge of embezzling $5,500 last July from the Bank of Somerset at Princess Anne, Mrs. Parks, a former employee of the bank, immediately was sentenced to a year in prison by Judge Roszel C. Thomsen.

Council Bucks Transporting White Children To Pool

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—A majority of the Montgomery County Council feels the county should stop transporting children to the segregated swimming pool at Glen Echo Amusement Park.

County buses have been hauling white children to the private pool in connection with the county's summer recreation program. Negro children have been taken to integrated pools in Washington.

Four council members, David L. Cahoon, Joe M. Kyle, William F. Hickey and Stanley B. Frosh, expressed the view Thursday that county transportation of white children to Glen Echo should be halted. The three other members, Mrs. Stella Werner, Grover K. Walker and Harry T. Williams, declined to discuss the subject.

In backing an end to the practice, the majority is following a recommendation of the council's commission on human relations.

The initial meeting here May 20 was called by Maryland Gov. J. Millard Tawes to consider economic problems of the Appalachian region and what states can do through cooperative efforts to solve these.

Govs. Bert Combs of Kentucky and Cecil Underwood of West Virginia joined Tawes for the session along with representatives of governors of Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina and New York. They decided an interim committee should explore the matter further and then call another conference of governors.

Alvin Wilson of Cumberland, Tawes' representative on the committee, was injured in an auto accident last week and will not be able to attend. George W. Hubley Jr., director of the Department of Economic Development, has asked the governor to name another representative to attend the meeting in Atlanta.

The committee is expected to come up with recommendations on how state and federal programs can be better coordinated—especially on education and highways—to give the mountain regions a permanent economic lift.

Appalachian Study Unit To Meet

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A special study committee appointed at the close of the first Appalachian Governors' Conference here in May will meet in Atlanta, Ga., on Sept. 21.

The interim committee, made up of the representatives of governors in the 11-state Appalachian region, will draw up plans for a second meeting of the governors in Berea, Ky., Oct. 17-18.

Also meeting with the committee will be the Southern Regional Education Board and the Southern Regional Council of State Governments.

The initial meeting here May 20 was called by Maryland Gov. J. Millard Tawes to consider economic problems of the Appalachian region and what states can do through cooperative efforts to solve these.

Govs. Bert Combs of Kentucky and Cecil Underwood of West Virginia joined Tawes for the session along with representatives of governors of Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina and New York. They decided an interim committee should explore the matter further and then call another conference of governors.

Alvin Wilson of Cumberland, Tawes' representative on the committee, was injured in an auto accident last week and will not be able to attend. George W. Hubley Jr., director of the Department of Economic Development, has asked the governor to name another representative to attend the meeting in Atlanta.

The committee is expected to come up with recommendations on how state and federal programs can be better coordinated—especially on education and highways—to give the mountain regions a permanent economic lift.

Pullen Blasts Warfield Plan As Power Grab

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, leveled sharp criticism Friday at a plan to convert three teachers colleges into University of Maryland branches.

Pullen called the plan "a power grab" by university officials.

The proposal, endorsed in principle by Gov. Tawes, would remove state teachers colleges at Frostburg, Salisbury and Towson from the jurisdiction of the Department of Education and place them within the university's sphere of operations.

A governor's commission headed by Albin O. Kuhn, executive vice president of the university, released a 289-page report Thursday detailing the possible conversion and expansion of courses offered by the colleges.

Kuhn called the proposal "fully feasible." Similar expressions of approval came from other key administration figures, including Budget Director James G. Renne and Planning Director James O'Donnell.

Pullen, who had said earlier he opposed the plan, repeated his opposition after release of the Kuhn report.

"This procedure on the part of the university officials to expand by expropriating other institutions is a dangerous threat to all public education," he said.

There were also indications that opponents might seek to block implementation of the proposal by referendum.

The plan, originally advanced by a commission studying methods of coping with an expected doubling of the university's College Park enrollment by 1970, was unveiled last winter. Tawes then named the Kuhn group to study the feasibility of carrying out the plan.

Its main feature is the movement of higher education to all parts of the state, within commuting distance of the student, decreasing the number of students who would have to live on campus. The theory is that this would reduce expenditures for expanded dormitory and dining hall facilities on campus.

Under unification, the Kuhn group estimated, more students could receive college education at a lower per-student cost to the state.

The 10-year state cost of capital improvements, the group said, would be about $36 million to handle an enrollment increase of about 14,800 over the next 10 years.

Md. Demos Swap Blunt Words, Rousing Phrases

By LOUIS G. PANOS
BALTIMORE (AP)—Democratic campaign officials and Maryland party leaders exchanged blunt words and rousing phrases Friday at a meeting to jack up sagging ticket sales for their Sept. 16 $100-a-plate dinner at Pikesville.

The secret session in the party's headquarters hotel here included these developments:

1. A prediction by George Hocker, Gov. Tawes' unofficial adviser and the party's most powerful untitled figure, that at least 1,500 tickets will be sold to the dinner featuring a major appearance by presidential candidate John F. Kennedy.

2. An estimate by former Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro that Kennedy needs a city majority of at least 60,000 votes to carry Maryland's nine electoral votes.

3. Complaints by several city leaders, for whom the pep-talk session was primarily called, that no arrangements have been made to "guarantee enough 'precinct money' for ballot-dispensers and other poll workers on election day."

4. Sharp criticism of Baltimore Mayor J. Harold Grady for not "getting off his seat" during the campaign in general and failing to attend this particular meeting. This came from Hocker.

5. A verbal attack by Northwest Baltimore leader James H. (Jack) Pollack on the leadership of National Committeeman Michael J. Birmingham, an old factional foe and chairman of the dinner.

6. A reply by Birmingham that he had already sold 17 tables, or 170 tickets, for the dinner, compared with 20 tables sold by all city party leaders.

7. An observation by Joseph Curran, the Bostonian acting as Kennedy's liaison man for Maryland, that only $2 was raised locally for the candidate's Maryland primary campaign last May.

8. Agreement by most of those present that the meeting, first of its kind in the campaign, was just the thing to clear the air of factional bitterness.

9. A declaration by D'Alesandro that "The Republicans are starving everybody in the United States and we've got the best candidate and we're going to win."

10. Promises by everyone to work harder on ticket sales and raise enough money for a winning campaign.

Others present included Reps.

Edward A. Garmatz, George H. Fallon and Samuel N. Friedel, all of Baltimore; Rep. Richard E. Lankford of the Fifth (Southern Maryland) District; State Party Chairman Thomas B. Finan, dinner treasurer Frank X. Wells, State Sen. Joseph V. Mach and Del. Francis X. Gallagher of Baltimore and Pat Foley, brother of Rep. John R. Foley of the Sixth (Western Maryland) District.

Also attending were city leaders John Valis, John O. Rutherford, Hugo A. Ricciuti and John Pica plus Carl R. Tavin, executive secretary of party headquarters.

Unfurl Those Aching Feet!

Take a tip from the Powers Models, who frankly admit they are only "as good as their feet," only as beautiful as their feet are comfortable. It's true, you know. More wrinkles are wrought by aching feet than by aging skin.

Powers Models treat their feet with more respect than they would precious jewels, exercising them faithfully BEFORE they begin to give in to chronic fatigue, weakness and disorders.

In addition to the barefoot work-out I will describe, my models give their feet every possible advantage during their regular calisthenics. Some of the best of these are outlined in "Dance Through a Week to Beauty," a booklet you may obtain from me, c/o this newspaper with just ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Please allow at least two weeks for delivery of same.

The simplest steps to strong feet are taken on tiptoe. Feet parallel, rise up on your toes, sink back, then up again. When you are home, make a habit of walking around on tiptoe every so often. Away from home, with shoes on your feet, you can still get plenty of exercise just wiggling your toes. Try this the next time you find yourself just sitting-and-waiting; it's a profitable way to spend time you might otherwise feel you are wasting.

Among other feats for fit feet is walking around barefoot on the outer edges of your feet. Then, you can stand and rock back and forth, lifting heels high when you pitch forward on your toes.

Seated, stretch out your legs . . . and then stretch your toes to a wide fan. Try picking up a pencil with toes curled in, that still-reliable old standby. Still seated, extend your legs and then raise your feet off the floor. Bend your toes back and

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It's too late to do anything about our summer vacation now, but I need something in black and white for next year.

My husband gets a 10-day summer vacation. We like to go to a fishing resort. My husband was very disappointed this year because two couples he invited couldn't join us.

My beef is this: I like people, but when I go on a vacation I want to be by ourselves. The thought of entertaining city guests in a small cabin, hauling water from the river, cooking on a wood stove and supplying food and beer for people who don't know us in the city, makes me fume.

My husband says he can't enjoy a vacation without people and that I should put up with it. Should I? — TIERED

DEAR TIERED: Women need a vacation from housework as much as men need to get away from the asphalt jungle. Select a different spot next year — a place with modern facilities, plus a central lodge where your husband can find people if he can't get along without them. He should not have to import his city friends.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I gave a small dinner party for our son's eighth birthday. I invited seven little friends.

An hour before the party a 5-year-old neighbor girl appeared at the door and asked if she could come to the party. I told her I was sorry but the party was all planned.

Fifteen minutes later another child came to the door and said he had some new games, and wanted to join the party. I told him no, also. I hated to turn these children away but eight was all I could handle.

The morning after the party I had two phone calls. The mothers of the rejected children claimed I was heartless and that I had been cruel to their children.

What's your opinion? — M. M. DEAR M. M.: I don't agree with your critics. Children's parties can get out of hand easily and when they do it's bedlam. The only way to keep control is to limit the number of guests.

Youngsters should learn, too, not to go where they are not invited. It's unbecoming.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You always stick up for the mother-in-law. Why don't you say something in defense of the daughter-in-law for a change?

We've been married ten years (no children) and my husband is still such a mama's boy that he has to stop off at Mama's house every night before coming home. She always has something he likes to eat, so he has dinner over there and doesn't eat the dinner I've prepared.

His mother is a much better cook than I am, but I don't think he's being fair to me. I think he should be man enough to eat at home. How do I cope with this? — CAMEILLE

DEAR CAMEILLE: If you can't beat HER — join HIM. Since this has been going on for ten years accept the fact that you aren't going to change it. Sweeten up your attitude and meet him at Mama's! Most women would be delighted to have someone cook dinner for them every night! It could be, too, that after a few weeks of this routine your mother-in-law may suggest that you both eat at home.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

East-West, Moslem-Christian Meet In Friendship At Morocco Monastery

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

In at least one place in the world today, the East and West meet in frank friendship.

It's at a monastery in Morocco. There, proponents both of democracy and Marxism converse in mutual respect. Moslems, Catholics, Jews and Protestants confront their differences and seek genuine understanding.

"They come as strangers, but inevitably part as friends," said philosopher William Dunphy, who has spent several sessions at the quiet, secluded religious haven on a wooded plateau of North Africa's middle Atlas Mountains. "It's a rare and fascinating situation."

The spot, in a way, has become a sort of neutral ground for the modern, conflicting forces of the earth — a place where partisans can air their views without partisanship.

The Benedictine monastery is called Toulmin, the name of a nearby spring.

The annual international conferences, started there in 1956 under the leadership of the prior, Father Denis Martin, have attracted widening attention.

Participants have come from about 35 countries. Numerous governments, including the U.S. State Department, now sponsor representatives. Last month, Iron Curtain scholars attended for the first time. Other Marxists have participated previously.

Yet the mood has remained one of peace and inquiry, not conflict.

"Somehow, an atmosphere of confidence is generated there," said Prof. Dunphy of Fordham University. He emphasizes that the tone is religious and cultural, not political. "The whole spirit of the thing brings out a tremendous feeling of good will."

Asked if the reaction might stem from the sequestered religious setting, with its associations of prayer, solitude and nature, he said "that definitely has something to do with it."

"It's one of those indefinable things," he added.

"These groups spend a great deal of time together. They live in the same quarters. They use communal facilities. After a few days of sitting around the same table and ripping a roast sheep apart, all the phony posturing is gone. "Something happens to them. It may sound corny, but I think it's love."

This curious aura of trust and mutual esteem that seems to pervade the meetings, despite the keen and candidly expressed differences of outlook, also has intrigued other American participants.

Protestant philosopher F.S.C. Northrup of Yale University called the atmosphere of the affairs "one of the most constructive developments of the contemporary world."

Four U.S. foundations, including the Ford Foundation, have started giving support to the meetings.

Prof. Dunphy, who lives in Freeport, N.Y., and writer Peter Beach of New York City tell the story of the extraordinary monastery, its founding and work, in a new book, "Benedictine and Moor," published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc.

Situated in a border zone of Eastern and Western culture, where Islam faces Christianity, where Marxism vies with democracy, where colonial power only recently gave way to independence, the monastery stands amidst rival, pivotal forces.

To bring these disparate hostile parties together, in search of fuller mutual understanding, became the mission of Toulmin.

"It has great potentialities for the future," said Dunphy.

"People meeting in a neutral atmosphere don't have to maintain national positions. They don't have to stand up as participants in the cold war. They are more free. They become interested in others' points of view, and in dealing with them, clarify their own thinking."

Deep in the human heart is the desire for greater and wider vision. It prompted early man to climb the trees and to scale the peaks. Every year it lures thousands to the top of the Empire State Building. It inspired the telescope and microscope, and eventually radar.

Similar to this yearning for vision, yet sacred in its powerful prompting, has been man's spiritual quest. Although there is much natural evidence around us to prove there is a God, we want to understand His mind, His power and will... His heart!

No human inventions are needed here. In the Church established by Jesus Christ, in the Truth taught by Jesus Christ, in the Life inspired by Jesus Christ — each of us finds that wider vision his soul craves.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Town Council Airs Problems Of Traffic

Westernport Notes Changes

WESTERNPORT — The town council plans to prohibit pedestrians from using Front Street from the intersection of Washington Street to Fusner Street. All persons will be required to use the pavement.

For over 50 years many residents of the community have used the street instead of the sidewalk due to its handiness.

But due to increased vehicular traffic Alvin Pence, police commissioner, pointed out at the council meeting that enforcement would help prevent someone being struck by a vehicle.

After street signs that have ordered are received the change will be put in operation.

Council ordered that parking be changed from the north side to south side of Gordon Street and also from north to south side on Smoot Street.

Two possible sites for construction of a new fire hall for Potomac Fire Company No. 2 was discussed. Paul Michael, was spokesman for the fire company.

Mayor Ray L. Wilt announced that Mrs. Peggy Shaw and Mrs. Fanny Grove have completed their water survey of the town. It was ordered they be paid $100 each.

Mrs. Katherine Dailey, town clerk, reported that parking receipts and violations amounted to $129.42.

Ordered that payment be made of $146.70 to Duncan Meter Company for three parking meters that have been installed on Main Street in the vicinity of Dr. Neil Williams office.

The town clerk was instructed to issue invitations for bids from automobile dealers for a new police cruiser car. Bids are to be received by October 15.

Robert Kalbaugh, reported James A. Welsh Jr., complained of needing more light near his home on Church Street. Potomac Edison Company will be requested to put a light in that area.

RICHARD MILHOUS NIXON

NIXON VS KENNEDY

Two politically astute young men are squaring off in their fight to seek the highest office in the land—the Presidency. Their talents, their ideas, their promises will be their big weapons—and only the voters will decide who's the winner in November.

The two antagonists, the choices of their parties are John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Democrat, and Richard Milhous Nixon, Republican.

Kennedy is 43; Nixon is 47. Both men are college trained. Kennedy studied at Harvard; Nixon at Whittier and Duke. Both men have been in the same branch of service during World War II, the Navy. They are both family men. The two have been nurtured for their political roles in the Houses of Congress. Nixon started his climb as Congressman, and so did Kennedy. The two became Senators. Only Nixon went a step further, to reach the Vice-Presidency.

Both men are skilled campaigners. They have employed every bit of resourcefulness, ingenuity and intuitiveness in their bids for public office, and promise to do so again when they face the electorate during the months ahead.

Picture biographies of the two men are presented here.

In 1950, Nixon ran for the Senate and was elected by a wide margin over Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas. Here he watches returns.

A vigorous campaigner, Nixon bends over rear platform of his train to shake hands with crowd at Kalamazoo, Mich., during 1956 swing of country.

Kennedy's campaign workers applaud him after his victory over Republican Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., in 1952.

Board Receives Letter On Surplus Commodities

A letter was received yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners from William J. Brugger, supervisor of the state donable foods program, concerning surplus food which the county turned over to the agency several months ago.

Brugger in his letter said the U. S. Department of Agriculture wanted distribution receipts for May, 1960. He also stated that the corn meal which was turned back by Allegany County when it ended the program in June was not fit for human consumption.

Brugger stated the cornmeal was disposed of as "animal food". When James G. Stevenson, clerk to the board, read that section of the letter, Commissioner John T. Mason commented that "if it wasn't fit for humans, why should it be fed to animals?"

The state agency head stated that it may result in the USDA filing a claim for the loss in connection with the corn meal.

The letter met with a cool reception by the county commissioners.

The Maryland State Police are currently accepting applications for appointments as troopers.

Lt. W. E. O'Hara, commander of the LaVale barracks, said yesterday that the next recruiting class will begin at the State Police Academy in Pikesville on January 2.

Lt. O'Hara listed the minimum qualifications as a resident of Maryland for at least six months, 21 to 31 years of age, minimum height of five-foot, ten inches with weight in proportion, a high school education, motor vehicle operator's permit and excellent physical condition.

The applicant may be single or married.

The closing date for applications has been set at September 17. Applications are available at the LaVale barracks and may also be obtained by writing the Office of Commissioner of Personnel in Baltimore.

Lt. O'Hara noted that the starting salary for troopers is $3,450 plus subsistence.

The accepted candidates will undergo six months of intensive basic training at Pikesville in all phases of police work before they are assigned to field duty.

Two Wills Admitted To Probate Here

Two wills were admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

The will of George L. Buchanan, lumber dealer and businessman who died August 21 as the result of a fall, named The Liberty Trust Company and L. Leslie Helmer, his step-son, as executors.

A cash bequest was made to L. Leslie Helmer Jr., godchild of the deceased and two trusts were set up for the benefit of Mrs. Bess (Roberts) Buchanan, widow of the deceased, and L. Leslie Helmer and his wife, Helen Helmer, and their children.

The will was dated November 18, 1955.

The will of William D. Webb, city, who died August 23 named his widow, Mrs. Estella Anna Webb, as executrix. The widow and children of the deceased are beneficiaries.

School Patrol Funds Sought

Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of school transportation, met with the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to inquire about the annual $300 donation for the School Patrol.

The money is used for belts and other equipment for patrolmen who guard children while crossing street intersections near schools.

Commissioner John J. Rowan told Ramey that the county had recently completed work on First Street in LaVale and suggested that it be used as a point where children board buses. This would provide a much safer area than the section which has been used.

Ramey said he would check into the matter.

Ramey told the board that Lt. W. E. O'Hara, commander of the LaVale Barracks of the State Police, has arranged for a trooper to be on hand when children attending LaVale Elementary School get off the bus on U. S. Route 40. Ramey explained that the street near the school is in process of being repaired and the bus can not get any closer than the highway to the school.

Reservists Get Promoted

Richard L. Ball, of 303 Brookfield Avenue, a tire engineer for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, has been notified of his promotion from lieutenant to lieutenant commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Lt. Ball, administrative officer for Naval Reserve Surface Division 3-9, was one of three officers at the local division who were promoted.

Joseph McDaniel and Edward Miller were advanced from lieutenant junior grade to lieutenant.

Lt. Ball was commissioned ensign in June, 1948, after completing Navy College Training program at Tufts University, Medford, Mass., in NROTC.

He joined the local division in February, 1950, and was called to active duty in the Korean conflict, serving two years aboard USS Sanborn (APA-193).

His promotion was retroactive, having become effective December 1, 1958.

Lt. Ball is married to the former Miss Shirley M. Diedrich of this city, and the couple has two daughters and a son.

Widening Horizons In Education

The new school term is under way, and into the classrooms troop a host of children of all ages, ready to explore the approaches to learning. Perhaps some go unwillingly like Shakespeare's schoolboy, but things are different than in that day. School itself is more "As You Like It."

Youth may pose as averse to study, but really goes back to school gladly. The classroom is no longer a place of confinement, but one where the windows open to increasing understanding of the advances constantly being made in science and the art of living. Extra-curricular activities are wider and more interesting.

The little red schoolhouse where the curriculum was exhausted by the three Rs has all but disappeared. The city child still has some educational advantages, but even in isolated rural areas, buses take the children to central schools where combined resources provide modern equipment and methods.

In the old days a boy's horizon—or a girl's—was limited. The girl could look forward to housework, and the major part of her education was her mother's teaching. The boy was expected to follow his father's occupation, though his not fully understood yearnings for other fields were to make him what was referred to as a "square peg in a round hole."

Now school boys and girls alike are given an insight into the widest ranges of human endeavor and that is well, for there never was so much need for education as today.

Fortunately, progress has been made in educational methods, from the kindergarten up. Naturally it has created new problems. Fads come and go. Curricula are strained to include all the subjects held desirable even for primary pupils.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky
Who Needs Him?

So Nikita Khrushchev is coming here again to make a speech before the General Assembly of the United Nations. With him may come all the heads of satellite countries, including bewiskered Fidel Castro. They will all make speeches. They will be in attendance during an American Presidential campaign. It will be a Communist circus held during the most crucial period of the 1960 Presidential campaign. It is surely planned to be a diversion.

Protocol does not require any American except our Ambassador to the United Nations to recognize their presence. The President is not required to recognize the presence in the United States of Khrushchev or his dependents. Neither do Messrs. Nixon and Kennedy need to pay any attention to Khrushchev. Khrushchev and his aides are going to the United Nations which should have a hotel on its grounds where they might stay. Certainly the outrageously inhospitable treatment meted out to our President at Paris and his rejection as an invited guest to Russia, no hotel is required to show the slightest hospitality to this boorish ex-peasant; no restaurant need receive him; no police need escort him.

There is no way to keep him out of the United Nations. The country agreed to let that body have a spot on the East River and the Rockefeller paid for the land. So we are stuck with it. But that does not mean that we need to disturb ourselves over who comes to or goes from the United Nations. They can come on their own steam and leave on their own steam. There is no reason why any agency of the United States should take cognizance of their arrival or their departure.

Any person who acted as rudely to the President of the United States as Nikita Khrushchev did has no place on American soil. The plot of land which the United Nations inhabits is not American soil as long as the United Nations is there. That much we have to admit, and according to the treaty, anyone who has business with the United Nations is free to come and go. But that does not mean that such a person is entitled to a police escort or that the streets of New York have to have traffic diverted or that the citizens be interfered with in any way.

Our President had been invited to visit Russia as a guest of the Russian people and government. This invitation was withdrawn with outrageous boorishness and even brutality. Common decency should impel Americans to treat Khrushchev on this visit with a minimum of respect, with the barest requirement of mannerliness. For him, there ought to be no receptions, no parties, no acknowledgement of his presence.

This is not retaliation. It is respect for the office of the President of the United States and for whoever occupies that office. Khrushchev had his fun at Paris and now he wants us to say that boys will be boys and to forget all about it. But that cannot be possible in a decent society. The un-mannerliness of Khrushchev, his vulgarity, his use of untranslatable words and phrases in his references to our country and our President are intolerable. Vishinsky, at any rate, insulted us in the language of a gentleman, but Khrushchev is no gentleman. And there can be no reason, diplomatic or political, why we need to show tolerance for such a brutish creature.

There will, of course, be those who will say that they must entertain Khrushchev to get a contract for this or that or perhaps to be able to sell motion pictures or to make a deal of some kind. For such, we need not concern ourselves. Their souls function by I.B.M. machines and their minds have been corrupted by reading too many balance sheets. Nor need we worry about the Park Avenue intellectuals who will say that Khrushchev really came over to influence Americans to make Adlai Stevenson Secretary of State. We want no foreigners to butt into our elections.

Nor need we concern ourselves with those whose flesh has already become carrion from fear and who would say, be kind to Khrushchev or he will bomb us with Sputniks. To them, we can only say that no head of state, in all our history, insulted our President as violently as Khrushchev insulted President Eisenhower. This we must not forget.

Defection Indicates Blackmail, Brainwashing

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Blackmail and brainwashing by Soviet agents undoubtedly brought about the treason of William H. Martin and Bernon F. Mitchell.

The whole record in the case is repulsive and may never see the light of day. But the depths to which the Soviet agents stoop nowadays in order to get scraps of information from American military sources are indescribably revolting.

The same tactics which caused Messrs. Burgess and MacLean, the British diplomats, suddenly to defect to Moscow from London would appear to have been used again in the case of the two Americans employed in the hush-hush bureau known as the National Security Agency.

The story goes back to the time Mitchell and Martin lived together while they were in the Navy. They were seclusive individuals who didn't seem to be interested in the opposite sex. When they went through the first check-up before being employed by the National Security Agency a few years ago, there was nothing derogatory found out about them. After they were employed, however, an investigation revealed that one of the two had been examined by a psychiatrist who said later that the young man seemed to have inclinations to ward sex deviation.

Just why this report didn't result in any action to watch closely the subsequent behavior of the two young men is a mystery. For they went to Mexico together fully a year before their recent defection, and it was undoubtedly while they were in Mexico that they made their first contact with the Soviets.

The threats of blackmail, together with compromising pictures, usually come first. The victim is afraid of what will be disclosed about his personal life, and meets often with the Soviet blackmailers who carry on their brainwashing to the point where the defection becomes inevitable, as seemingly the only way out.

It could be that the Soviet experts began their blackmail in Mexico and decided to train the future defectors to get further information. The plot was carried out to the point that the Soviets even anticipated possible charges of brainwashing and arranged to have the two young men write out their statement before they left the United States for the Soviet Union. It was known to government authorities here that they had left such a statement in a safety deposit box at a bank in Maryland, and the text became available to the American government just after the two young men left for Russia, but it was not released for publication.

The phrasing of the document, now issued in Moscow, is so much like that which defectors often use, that it bears all the earmarks of careful preparation by Soviet experts. It says, for example:

"In the Soviet Union our main values and interests appear to be shared by a greater number of people. Consequently, we feel that we will be better accepted socially there, and will be better able to carry out our professional activities."

"Another motivating factor is that the talents of women are encouraged and utilized to a much greater extent in the Soviet Union than in the United States. We feel that this enriches Soviet society and makes Soviet women more desirable as mates."

There are references to "capitalist society," "preventive war" and to the "development of nuclear and more powerful means of destruction." And, as if to anticipate charges of brainwashing, the document itself says:

"This statement has been made without consulting with the government of the Soviet Union . . . We wish to make this explanation in such a way that it cannot be later construed as a propaganda statement inspired by the government of the nation in which we have asked to be allowed to make our homes."

There are many things about the Martin-Mitchell episode which have yet to be explained, and one of them gives a clear indication of the brainwashing. This is pointed up by a Reuters News Service dispatch from Moscow on Tuesday about the press conference which Martin and Mitchell held there. It says:

"Martin and Mitchell referred to the disappearance of an American C-130 aircraft over Soviet Armenia in September 1958, and said it had deliberately crossed the border to get into range of Soviet radar installations. The State Department claimed it had been shot down, they said, while Russia said it had crashed."

The two men said they were told by a high official of the National Security Agency that the plane was on an intelligence flight and feeling that most members of Congress did not know about these flights they decided to speak privately with a Congressman. They explained the nature of the C-130 flight but the conversation was interrupted by a telephone call from the State Department requesting the Congressman to refrain from further discussion of the subject, they said.

"They declined to give the name of the Congressman. 'He can name himself if he wants to,' Mitchell said."

American authorities who investigated every angle of the case are convinced that this is an example of brainwashing. For there is indisputable evidence of the crashing of the C-130, and there is no evidence whatsoever of any conversations between State Department officials dealing with these problems and any Congressman.

On its face, it is absurd to assume that any minor employee in a hush-hush agency would take it upon themselves normally to go to a Congressman's office and tell him there were important intelligence flights which he should know about. The risk of being compromised and detected by such a visit is so great that it seems hardly possible anybody in his right mind would try it.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

FOREIGN AID—Congress has just appropriated $4 billion for foreign aid spending during the 12 months ending June 30, 1961. This will carry U. S. foreign aid spending since the end of World War II well over the $80 billion mark.

Most of this total, about $50 billion, has gone for economic assistance, with the balance for military aid.

Europe received the lion's share of the funds, with Asia second, Latin America third and Africa receiving the least.

The largest single recipient country is France with $9.7 billion. England is second with $7.7 billion. Russia has received $4.23 billion, Poland $634 million and Czechoslovakia $191 million. Yugoslavia, the anti-Russian Communist nation, has received $2 billion.

Cuba, currently the U. S.'s most outspoken foe in Latin America, has accepted $53 million, although no aid funds have gone there since Fidel Castro has made his anti-American feelings evident.

CROWDED SPACE — Some of America's most eminent scientists are becoming genuinely concerned over the proliferation of man-made satellites orbiting the earth.

There are 36 vehicles or parts of vehicles circling the globe at the present time. The prospect is that more than 100 will be in orbit in another year, with perhaps as many as half sending out information via radio signals.

There is small danger of collision, and virtually no possibility of any injury to human beings on earth from falling satellite debris. But the scientists themselves fear that the many radio signals will hamper their work in learning about conditions in space.

They want a law — an international agreement — that will set aside radio frequencies, altitude and direction of orbiting vehicles so that spatial traffic will flow smoothly and be able to do its optimum job.

When To Remove Tonsils And Adenoids?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A young great-grandmother of 69 is convinced that infected tonsils and adenoids in children should be removed to prevent other illness later in life. All her children had this done and were healthy and energetic afterward.

"My granddaughter's youngsters," she writes, "all have fevers, earaches, and swollen tonsils and adenoids every time the weather changes. They look puny, have poor appetites, and spend more time in the house than children of comparable age.

Mouth breathing changed them from normal, good looking youngsters into sickly, undernourished, tired looking boys and girls."

This reader has every reason to blame the tonsils and adenoids because she reared her own children in an era when having tonsils was the only reason for doing a tonsilectomy. The pendulum has swung in the opposite direction—perhaps too far. It takes an act of Congress to have them removed today because physicians want to be absolutely certain they are bad enough to produce symptoms such as Granny mentioned above. This is not always easy to prove except by having them out and sending them to the laboratory.

Size is no criterion of infection because most children have enlarged tonsils. On the other hand, tonsils and adenoids are incriminated if no other causes exist for poor appetite, frequent colds, ear infections, and mouth breathing. In these cases, the chances for improvement after removal are good.

The wholesale eradication of these organs is a practice to be condemned because when these structures are healthy, they perform a useful function. They constitute a part of the ring of lymphatic tissue that encircles the Back in the office looking tanned and refreshed, a broker was asked about his three-week vacation.

"You all know that over-the-counter dealer on the floor above," he replied. "Well, he invited me to his shack in the Adirondacks. No hot water, no electricity, no radio or television, and not a woman within a 50-mile range."

"Were you able to enjoy yourself in spite of all that?" he was asked.

The broker laughed happily. "Who went?" he shrugged.

Dr. Henry Russell has compiled statistics revealing that the average man who has reached the age of 70 has spent 3 years in education, 8 years in amusement, 6 years in eating, 11 years in working, 24 years in sleeping, 5½ years in washing and dressing, 6 years in walking, 3 years in conversation, 3 years in reading and 6 months in worshipping God.

Pastors, Parishioners See Nixon, Kennedy As Religious Moderates

By Jack Anderson

Christian Endeavor meetings.

Dance Reform

He remained a model Quaker during his four years at Whittier College. But even at this early age he didn't permit his private life to interfere with his political ambitions. Although he didn't dance himself, he was elected student-body president on a platform pledge to introduce dancing to the Quaker campus.

At Duke University, Nixon was still considered proper and prudish by his classmates. He refused to sign in his college date as "Mrs. Nixon," for instance, in order to use a swimming pool restricted to faculty members and married graduate students.

It remained for the Navy to nudge Nixon off the straight-and-narrow. He not only took up poker playing but became so skillful at it that he trimmed his buddies for a reported $10,000 during the years he was in the Navy. He also developed a taste for cigars.

Nixon's bride, Thelma "Pat" Ryan, forsook her Methodist religion to become a Quaker more to please mother Nixon than her husband.

Disliked Silent Services

In Washington, they felt ill at ease attending Quaker services which were of the silent, non-pastoral sort. Some Quakers also disapproved of Nixon's rough-and-tumble political tactics and his friendship for the late Sen. Joe McCarthy.

"I was brought up in the Ohio branch of the Quaker church whose services are more like yours," Nixon explained to the Protestant pastors whose churches he attended.

First the Nixons started going to the Westmoreland Congregational Church. They kept quietly in the background, turned down an offer of reserved seats. At one Easter service, they were obliged to take the last seats in the balcony.

When they moved to a ritzier neighborhood, they began attending the rearser Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church. Again they shunned the limelight, preferring to keep their worship private and personal.

The Vice President's mother Hannah Nixon was disturbed at first over having her son attend non-Quaker services. She became reconciled after she was assured he would not partake of communion.

Mother's Reproach

Nixon is noticeably more attentive to church when his mother is around. Upon a recent California visit, his busy schedule did not include church service. The Secret Service even telephoned the East Whittier church to say the Vice President would be unable to attend.

But he couldn't resist the silent reproach in his mother's eyes. After breakfast, he blurted: "Mother, should we go to church this morning?" They went, arm in arm.

Jack Kennedy also was influenced by a deeply religious mother who during Sunday dinners would explain the rituals the family had seen at church.

Except for one year in a lay Catholic school, however, young Kennedy attended Protestant schools. His father believed this would better prepare him to compete in a Protestant world. But to please his mother, he always lived up to his religious obligations.

"Jesus Loves Me"

His Catholic upbringing didn't prevent him from joining his Navy crewmates in a rousing chorus of the Protestant hymn, "Jesus Loves Me, This I Know," after they were rescued from a harrowing wartime adventure in the Japanese-infested south seas.

Kennedy is described by his pastor, Father Martin Casey of Georgetown's Holy Trinity Catholic Church, as being "modest, private and personal" in his worship.

Usually the Kennedys slip quietly into the church and take inconspicuous seats in the balcony. Their wedding in 1953, incidentally, was blessed by the Pope himself.

Jack Kennedy has taken his turn as head of the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation through which the family has donated an estimated $12,000,000 to Catholic churches and charities. All his sisters are active in Catholic social work.

Although staunch in their faith, neither Nixon nor Kennedy is so doctrinaire that he cannot take a public position opposite to his church teachings.

Nixon went against his Quaker strain to embrace a military policy of "massive retaliation." In truth, he has been more militant than most other members of the Eisenhower administration in his appeals for stronger defenses and tougher policies.

Kennedy, in turn, has been blistered by the Catholic press for opposing the Church hierarchy on such issues as birth control, Federal aid to parochial schools, and economic assistance to Communist countries trying to break away from the Soviet grip.

Conclusion: Both candidates clearly stand for separation of church and state.

The Insiders

The other "twin" in the tele-writing companies, stocks of which gyrated so fantastically on the N. Y. Stock Exchange — Comptometer—also has had interesting "insider" transactions.

Comptometer is seeking to register 190,553 common shares with the SEC.

Of this total 39,330 shares are for the company's new president, 39,330 shares for a vice president and director and 7,620 for another vice president and director.

The prospectus states "persons" holding these shares "may wish to sell" them, "or any part thereof, from time to time during a period of 12 months from the date of this prospectus . . . In transactions upon the New York Stock Exchange at current prices."

The shares were issued in exchange for several businesses taken over by Comptometer in the last year and a half.

Comptometer shares, which sold earlier this year as low as $13, had a sensational rise at the same time as those of TelAutograph, the other "twin." The wild trading in both stocks forced the Stock Exchange several times to suspend dealings in them.

It all started when the press agent for TelAutograph in the name of that company's president — Raymond Lee — issued a statement reporting American Telephone had approved use of tele-writing machines on its local and long distance phone lines.

TelAutograph shares, which had sold as low as $7.62½ two weeks ago, started jumping on the "news," getting as high as $24.50. The stock since resumption of trading has sold down to $15.62½.

Comptometer's executive vice president—Peter G. S. Mero—followed the TelAutograph report with a statement that his company had the only telewriting machine approved at that time by A. T. & T. This brought immediate frantic buying in Comptometer shares.

Comptometer shares, which had been selling around $16.25 the week before, ran up to $30.25 during the period of on-off-again trading and then sold down to $20.25.

In the last two weeks of August and on the first day of September, TelAutograph at the urging of the Stock Exchange disclosed certain directors and an officer had sold stock.

One of the sellers was the secretary—Richard H. Keatinge—who sat next to TelAutograph's president when he told a hastily called N. Y. press conference "as far as any officer is concerned, speaking for myself and for the officers we have here, I know of no officers trading stock."

Mr. Keatinge sold 3,000 shares in the two weeks prior to Sept. 1 and 2,000 shares on Sept. 1.

Comptometer's registration covers 39,330 shares for Jack A. Schram, who became president last November, and the same number for William D. Schaffner, who became vice president last December. The two received their shares for sale to the company of the Burke Golf Equipment Corp. and Burke Golf Sales, Inc. This was on March 31, 1959, when Comptometer stock closed on the Stock Exchange at $15.12½.

Also included in the registration statement are 7,620 shares held by Harold R. Salisbury, a vice president and director. He was one of the owners of Nebraska Salesbook Co. and U.S. Business Forms Co., acquired last year by Comptometer.

Mr. Schram has an option to buy 20,000 shares at $18.70, Mr. Schaffner to buy 2,500 shares at $16.21, and Mr. Salisbury an option to buy 2,500 shares at $21.97 and another 2,500 at $16.11.

Mr. Mero, who issued the Comptometer statement that brought a rush of buying into that stock, exercised an option for 35,000 shares at $5.35 a share — 3,200 shares on Feb. 17, 1959 and 31,800 shares on May 5, last.

Mr. Mero came into the company early in 1958 on sale of his company, Union Thermoelectric Corp., which had the telewriter rights.

In addition to the stock options Mr. Mero received a guarantee of five per cent of the first $10 million Electrowriter sales and 3½ per cent of all net sales over that. He also received a $200,000 advance on Electrowriter royalties, a guarantee of $50,000 a year after that and $50,000 cash.

Comptometer exchanged 30,000 of its shares for Union Thermoelectric, of which Mr. Mero received 12,000 shares.

In the prospectus Comptometer reports:

"Operating revenues from rental of electrowriters are not as yet sufficient to cover the cost of sales and service functions required for the promotion and service of this product; because of these factors it is not anticipated that this product will make any contribution to the corporation's profits in the near future."

The company had net income before special charges last year of $84,960 or nine cents a common share, but after the special charges and preferred dividends a deficit of $298,414, or 37 cents a share. For the March quarter of this year the company reported net income of $167,015 or 21 cents a share.

Renewing football relations after a lapse of 23 years, Keyser High School's Golden Tornado routed the Bulldogs of Martinsburg High School in the opening game of the season yesterday at Keyser by the score of 33-0.

Coach Frederick "Tack" Clark's 1939 co-champions of the Potomac Valley Conference, making their bow in the West Virginia Triple A ranks, scored one or more touchdowns in every period for an easy victory.

Floyd Wilt started the Keyser machine on its scoring spree when he smashed over from the three and kicked the extra point in the first period. Sophomore Charley Bradford scored the first of his two touchdowns in the second period. Halfback Lawrence Smith galloped 33 yards for the third six-pointer in the third stanza and KHS racked up a pair of scores in the last quarter. City Schools Meet In 28th Grid Contest

Bumgarner Makes Bow As Northern Faces Meyersdale

LaSalle High School has been trying since 1936 to beat Fort Hill, its cross-town rival, but has been unsuccessful.

In the 27 games played between the schools the best that the Explorers got out of it was a scoreless tie and that was 22 years ago when John J. "Pek" O'Neill and John Blough headed LaSalle.

Jimmy Manges, a product of Fort Hill football, makes his debut tonight.

but as LaSalle's grid mentor to night when the Explorers make another effort to bump off the Greenway Avenue eleven at the stadium.

It's the opening game of the season for both schools and should attract a large turnout at $1 a head for adults and 50 cents for students, a ten cent boost over last year's admission fee.

Dethroned as city champions last Thanksgiving Day, Fort Hill, launching its second campaign under Charley Lattimer and Paul Flick, is hopeful of starting its drive back to the top by taking the opener.

Have Experienced Squad Fort Hill's squad includes 13 gridgers who have had experience in varsity play. Of the 14 players whom Lattimer has named as probable starters, 12 are seniors. Gary Henry, junior tackle and Ronnie Manges, junior quarterback, are among those listed.

These players are sure to see action: Bill Sheetz and Bill Colbert, ends; Henry and Danny Athey, tackles; Jack Hamilton and Walter Thomas, guards; Francis Hammersmith, center; Paul Green or Ronnie Manges, quarterback; Delbert Helmick, Dave Clem and Richard Peck, halfbacks; and Bob Shewbridge and Rich Parsons, fullbacks.

Fort Hill lost eight regulars of the 1959 squad that wound up the season with a 7-1-1 record. Manges, former Straburg, Va.,

Stock Market Has First Gain In Over Two Weeks

NEW YORK (UPI)—Traders looked forward to a relatively peaceful weekend for a change as they blessed the market Friday with its first substantial gain in better than two weeks.

The list started out slowly, picked up sharply around mid-morning and coasted in like a breeze to finish at its best. Trading expanded slightly, there were more new highs than lows and advances substantially outnumbered declines.

Contributing to the blast of fresh air were many big losers in previous sessions including electronics, motors and pivotal issues.

According to Dow-Jones, industrial issues firmed up 2.70 while utilities climbed 0.81 and rails finished 0.29 higher. Volume rose to 2,750,000 shares from 2,670,000 Thursday.

After watching the list sink to its last resistance level protecting the 1960 lows, most brokers were predicting rather narrow movements over the near term. They expect the list would have to "consolidate" a bit if any sustained rally could come about.

Talk of a sustained rally, however, appears to be restricted to only the most optimistic. Many observers are predicting another test of the approximately 600 resistance level, a level that has,

in fact, been "tested" three times in three months.

International Business Machines recoups a full 7 points from this week's melee, Texas Instruments 6 1/2, Beckman more than 3, Litton nearly 2. Electronics were good. Drugs performed in a like manner as if the Senate investigation was of no consequence. American Home Products climbed 2 1/2, Warner-Lambert nearly 2 and Schering and Vicks Chemical a point each.

Steels responded to news of higher production rates in the Youngstown district and "oversold" recommendations of some analysts by moving a point higher in National and U.S. Steel, 1/2 in Republic and lesser fractions for the others. Ford led a higher motor group with a gain of 1 1/2.

Comptometer announced that its officers had sold considerable company stock in possible violation of SEC regulations. It sold off 2 1/2, trading actively. Tel-autograph eased 1/4.

Coca-Cola, trading ex-dividend, rose 1 1/2 on news of merger negotiations with Minute Maid which lost 3/4. The latter stock headed up the most active with 54,000 shares.

Stocks on the American Exchange moved irregularly higher Friday in moderately active trading.

Gas Workers Denied Jobless Pay Benefits

Board Rules Lockout Is Labor Dispute

BALTIMORE (AP) — The appeals board of the Department of Employment Security ruled Friday that some 80 workers of a Cumberland utility are not entitled to jobless benefits for a month-long period when they were locked out by their employer.

The Board of Appeals affirmed the finding of a special examiner in the case involving union workers at the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Co.

The employees involved, members of Local 419 of the Utility Workers Union of America, represent most of the 96-man working force of the company in the Cumberland area.

Union Can Appeal

The issue in the case was whether they were idled because of a work stoppage caused by a labor dispute. State law denies unemployment pay in such cases.

The principal question was whether a lockout instituted by an employer constitutes a labor-dispute stoppage.

The Board of Appeals ruled, in effect, that a lockout is a labor dispute. It said the Maryland Court of Appeals has never ruled on this question, but it noted a Baltimore Superior Court had.

The union was given until Sept. 29 to appeal the board's decision.

The board held a labor dispute existed within the meaning of the recognized interpretation of that term, "since it is evident in this case that there was a controversy between the two parties relating to conditions of employment."

On the question of work stoppage, the board quoted the Court of Appeals: "Stoppage of work is a fact. The words do not connote any cause for that fact. It may be caused by a strike. It may be caused by a lockout. It may be caused by an act of God..."

Cite Court Rulings

The board also quoted rulings by high courts in Indiana and Washington to support its finding.

The lockout occurred July 29 and lasted until Aug. 26. It was ordered after a failure of the two sides to reach agreement on new terms for a contract which expired June 1.

The union took a strike vote during June, the board's opinion said, but a decision to strike was not officially announced.

The stoppage did not affect service to the 12,000 customers of the utility in the Cumberland area.

Members of the Board of Appeals are Chairman Joseph P. Healy, Carlton E. Pyles and James M. Barry. They heard arguments in the case at Cumberland Sept. 1.

Cancer Unit To Follow Up In Survey

The Allegheny County Chapter of the American Cancer Society is making preliminary plans for its first follow-up in the long-range cancer survey which was begun in the county last year.

Mrs. Regina M. Cioni, executive secretary of the county chapter, said the 174 researchers who took part in the first survey will be contacted and given instructions concerning the follow-up which will begin October 1.

In the first survey conducted last year, 1,142 families in the county were contacted and these persons filled out questionnaires in the cancer prevention study.

Maryland is one of 26 states taking part in the six-year survey which Cancer Society officials hope will aid in the prevention and treatment of cancer.

The survey itself will take six years, and an additional two years will be needed to complete the analysis. But officials of the society report that some findings based on a sample of 40,000 questionnaires may be released sometime next month.

The study was conducted in 1,100 counties in certain states and 1,100,000 persons were covered by the questionnaires.

Dog Studied For Rabies Bites Man

Unidentified Victim Urged To See Doctor

Burza Hanlin of Westernport, a county humane officer, is looking for an unidentified man who was reported to have been bitten yesterday morning by a dog tied up at the pound on Maryland Route 135 between McCoolle and Westernport.

Charles Johnson, an employee of a service station located near the pound, told Mr. Hanlin that a man had been bitten by the dog, which was tied to a tree. Mr. Johnson did not know the victim's name or address.

Mr. Hanlin is anxious to contact the victim and make sure he sees a doctor for medical attention. Meanwhile the dog was shot by an unidentified person, Mr. Hanlin said.

The dog reportedly bit a person about a week ago and was being kept tied up for observation. It was not determined whether the dog had rabies.

The man reportedly was bitten about 9:30 a. m. yesterday.

Bowling Green Fund Drive Ends Monday

The fund drive of the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company comes to an end on Monday, Clayton Gillum, president of the company and drive chairman, announced.

Members of the fire company will go to homes and collect the fund cards which were distributed 20 weeks ago.

The cards were distributed to families in the area protected by the volunteers. This includes Potomac Park, Roberts Place and Bowling Green.

Each person was requested to place his name, address and telephone number on the back of the card. The fire company has prepared a large map of the area and placed it on the wall of the fire hall, and has set up a card file in order to provide better service to the communities in time of emergencies.

Mr. Gillum said those wishing to use checks for their donations are requested to make them payable to the Bowling Green Fire Company.

Funds collected are used annually to purchase equipment and for upkeep of present equipment used in protecting the area.

Fire Chief Allan Deffenbaugh announced that a tank truck which will hold 1,200 gallons of water is now ready for service. It was obtained through the Maryland Civil Defense organization and has been given a new coat of paint and tires at a cost of $1,200.

Two gas masks costing the department nearly $600 have been added to the company's equipment to afford protection to the firefighters.

If a resident is not at home when the cards are being collected he is asked to leave his card at the Hamilton service station or Bowling Green Grocery.

County Bond Sale Cited

Allegheny County residents have been congratulated for their part in boosting the sale of U. S. Savings Bonds to a new all-time high.

Lynn C. Lashley, volunteer savings bond chairman for Allegheny County, said nationwide holdings of Series E and H bonds stood at $42.8 billion as of August 31, and of this amount Mr. Lashley estimated the county's share at $21,300,000.

The report on the savings bonds came to Mr. Lashley in the form of a congratulatory letter from William H. Neal, assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury and national director of the savings bond program.

Mr. Lashley said one of every four Allegheny County residents is a bond-owner.

Union Alleges Strike Violence Was Provoked

Answer Is Filed In Restraining Action

PARSONS, W. Va. (UPI)—The Hod Carriers Union says any picket-line violence at the strike-bound Kingsford charcoal plant here was deliberately provoked by the company to avoid collective bargaining.

Union attorneys said management-employee relations became strained because of "a deliberate plan and conspiracy by (Kingsford) to provoke its employees, precipitate incidents of seeming violence."

This was done, the attorneys said, to "falsely place its employees in the wrong light and thereby deny them their statutory right to act in concert, bargain collectively, and be represented by the union of their choice."

Answer Is Filed

The union's allegations were set forth in an amended answer to Kingsford's restraining action in Tucker County Circuit Court, under which a temporary injunction was issued last month. Six of the strikers have been cited for allegedly violating the injunction, and are scheduled for hearings Sept. 22.

The temporary injunction, granted by Circuit Judge Ernest See, limits picketing to three persons at the plant entrance. The company and the union, selected earlier this year as bargaining agent for the employees, have each accused the other of unfair labor practices during a six-week strike growing out of failure to reach agreement on a work contract.

The union's legal answer to the injunction suit also charged the firm with illegally firing strikers and threatening and abusing pickets.

Petitions Court

It denied the roadways to the plant have been obstructed by pickets or that persons or automobiles have been prevented from entering or leaving.

In a cross-complaint included in the answer, the union claimed that the plant manager "came through the gates with trucks and other vehicles and instructed the drivers to run down the pickets and other persons lawfully assembled."

"Said plant manager shouted to the driver of a truck approaching the employees, and others on strike, 'Run over the ———,'" the cross-complaint said. "This was part of plaintiff's plan to provoke its employees into unconsidered action in their defense."

The union asked the court to prohibit the company and its agents from threatening or intimidating pickets or "carrying concealed weapons or firearms in and about the plant premises."

Westernport Water Line Ruptures

Westernport is having water line trouble again and residents are being urged not to use water unnecessarily over the weekend.

Robert Kalbaugh, water commissioner of the community, said a large break in the line and a couple of small breaks were located yesterday by employees of the town.

It was determined yesterday that there was a break in the line when the water supply in the town's reservoir built up only about four inches overnight.

The water supply usually builds up about a foot overnight, according to Mr. Kalbaugh, who said that 14 feet of water was impounded in the reservoir yesterday morning. The normal water level is about 17 feet, he said.

Today the workmen will begin probing for the sources of the breaks, and water from the Savage River Dam will be cut off during repair work.

However there is an ample supply of water on hand in the reservoir for the residents of the community who are being asked not to water their lawns or wash their cars until the breaks have been repaired.

Mr. Kalbaugh recalled last night that a large break occurred in the water line about a year ago in about the same place.

However, Nash was petitioned for an immediate trial and Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason will file criminal information Tuesday in Circuit Court.

First Family Is Broken Up

Smiley, the unofficial mascot of Fort Cumberland Homes, this city's third low-rent public housing project, watches the rest of her family as Linda Morral, niece of Roy Morral, adopts one of the eight puppies. Mr. Morral, who is holding Smiley, is a machine operator for the George Construction Company, contractor for the 80-unit housing project which is slated for completion early next month. Smiley is rearing her family in the tool shed used by workers on the project.

Foley Blames GOP For Layoff At Fairchild

Rep. John R. Foley said in a public address at Halfway in Washington County last night that the Fairchild aircraft plant at Hagerstown is "practically closed down" and he wanted to "put the blame where it belongs."

Taking note of statements made last week by U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg concerning the F27 airplane funding difficulties in Congress, Rep. Foley declared, "The Senator did not give the full story."

The F27 program is a cargo aircraft which can be built at the Fairchild plant, and he said a contract for this plane would have kept the plant in full operation. Hundreds of people who had been employed there are out of work because of failure to appropriate funds for the F27, Rep. Foley said.

Mr. Foley said the Congressional Record of September 8 contains a documentary recital of the F27 facts.

Rep. Foley declared no one worked harder than he to secure this F27 item, and no one was more disappointed when it did not become a reality.

The Democratic Congressman said that in August 1958, the F27 item was turned down for the first time by a conference committee because Republican civilian officials of the Air Force did not request money for the F27 from the House-Senate committee.

In January 1959, he continued, Air Force officials asked for funds to buy F27s for embassy use, but the House committee turned this request down as not having sufficient military justification.

Mr. Foley said that Fairchild's representative in Washington first approached him in February 1959, at which time the F27 was considered dead because of the two previous refusals. He explained that in June 1959 he made his F27 motion from the House floor for F27s, only after the company's representative had given his prior approval.

This approval was given only after the Air Force failed to make a request to the Mahon subcommittee for F27 funds, and every indication was that there would be no request from the Senate Appropriations defense subcommittee.

Rep. Foley declared that his action on the floor ignited new interest in the F27, but that it lost for the third time because Air Force officials refused to come before the House subcommittee and make a request.

Mr. Foley reported that in February of this year he asked the Secretary of the Air Force to make a firm, militarily justified, request for F27s when he appeared before the Mahon committee.

The Secretary replied by letter that the Air Force did not plan to request in 1960 an F27 appropriation item from the House subcommittee. Thereafter, the Air Force made no request for F27s.

Mascot Is Rearing Family At New Housing Project

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

Fort Cumberland Homes, this city's third low-rent public housing project, will soon begin supplying homes for 80 Cumberland families.

But the first family to find a home there is being reared by Smiley, the fox terrier mascot of the men who began erecting the housing development early last December.

James B. Raines, executive director of the Cumberland Housing Authority, said the project pet was named "Smiley" by the workers "because she smiles."

The then tiny dog turned up at the construction site shortly after the first shanty was erected and immediately made herself at home.

She has been popular with the men, who purchased a license for her and kept her well supplied with affection, dog food and scraps from their lunch boxes.

About 10 days ago, Smiley became the mother of eight puppies, which are rearing in the tool shed.

Continues Her "Job"

Motherhood, however, is not interfering with her self-imposed duties of watchdog and companion of the night watchman.

Officials said there are already 14 applications for the puppies, which will have to remain with their mother for a while yet.

The George Construction Company, contractor for the $975,375 project which includes the 80-unit development between Oldtown Road and Thomas Street and the authority's new headquarters at Jane Frazier Village, is delaying the removal of the building until Smiley and her family are reared.

Smiley is a familiar sight in the area. Each night as work halts, she walks to the office to meet the night watchman and accompanies him on his rounds throughout the night.

She also makes unofficial tours between rounds whenever she hears strange noises, or whenever any strangers walk upon the construction site.

To Be Adopted

Smiley is slated for adoption at the end of the job by either the watchman or the project inspector, who may have to draw straws to decide the matter.

She is strictly a homebody, reported Mayor J. Edwin Keech following a visit to the project yesterday afternoon.

He said the men reported their mascot will go only to the limit of the property, and has no interest at all in the outside world.

Smiley's adopted home is in the final stages, and officials said the project will be virtually done by October 2, the official completion date.

Most of the units are ready for occupancy, except for odds and ends.

Mayor Keech, who accompanied City Engineer C. R. Nuzum on a tour of the project, said the development will be a major asset to the city.

He said the apartments contain every modern convenience and

Third Escapee Believed Located At Riverton

The last of three escapees who is still at large from Pendleton County Jail in Franklin, W. Va., was believed to be in a basement of a home in the Riverton area last night.

Harper Granville Hedrick, 49, of Riverton, according to the sheriff's office, reportedly was in one of his neighbor's homes and authorities planned to attempt to recapture the man under cover of darkness.

Sheriff Alt was under the impression Hedrick was getting tired and would not be able to hold out much longer.

Willard Lee Likens, 29, of Parsons, and John Vance, 19, of Rudie, who escaped along with Hedrick on Wednesday morning, have been recaptured.

The sheriff said Likens was the prisoner who apparently obtained a file and fashioned a key from a cake knife blade.

Union Label Week Lauded By GOP Here

The Republican State Central Committee last night congratulated the union label committee of the Western Maryland Central Labor Council for the effective celebration of Union Label Week here.

The action was taken in a letter written by J. Glenn Beall Jr., chairman of the Allegheny County GOP committee.

"All kinds of 'weeks' are celebrated in the United States, many of them being nothing more than meaningless promotions," he said.

"But Union Label Week is one that serves as a reminder of labor's great contributions to the economic growth of the nation by pointing up the fact that the cherished printed word is the best means of selling America—when the work is done by organized union experts who are proud of their profession."

"We should like to point out to you that all Republican literature bears the union label—including the large banner supporting Nixon, Lodge and Mathias that hangs over Baltimore Street. You might also be interested in knowing that all of Mr. Mathias' campaign materials are union made, including his matchbook covers, which bear two union labels—one for his picture and one for the printed matter."

"In contrast, we should like to call your attention to the Democratic banner over Baltimore Street, which for some strange reason, does not carry the union label. You might also examine Mr. Foley's matchbook covers, which carry no union label for the printed matter."

"To some politicians, these may seem to be only insignificant details, but we doubt that your organization thinks so, particularly since they occur during your outstanding celebration of Union Label Week."

"Again, our sincere congratulations. We like to feel that our own prominent use of the union label has in some small way helped to promote wider recognition in our area."

Traffic Route Is Changed

A change in detour regulations affecting Bedford Street has been announced by Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

Because of construction work beginning at the 500 block of Frederick, traffic has been detoured up Marshall Street to Bedford, then to Lowell, where it detoured back to Frederick.

Inability of large trucks to make the sharp turns and resultant damage caused by the large vehicles to sidewalk and other property brought this change.

Effective at once, traffic will detour off Frederick at 500 block as before but instead of detouring again at Lowell, the barricade has been removed and two-way traffic will be allowed on Bedford from Marshall Street to the city limits until further notice, according to Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney.

Pickets Fined For Violence At Oakland

Seven Employees Are Dismissed

Six former employees of the Sterling Processing Corporation yesterday were fined by Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney who found them guilty of charges stemming from a disturbance during the recent strike of the plant.

A seventh former employee who failed to appear yesterday before Magistrate Maroney in Oakland forfeited $100 bond.

Richard Sharpless, Gladys Hauser, James Holler, Charles Smith and Theodore Wakefield, pickets at the time of the strike, were charged with violations of a motor vehicle law which makes it unlawful to throw stones or missiles on a highway.

They were fined $50 and costs, according to the magistrate, who also fined Mrs. Elizabeth Ervin of Mt. Lake Park $25 and costs for strewn tacks on a road being traveled by trucks of the strike-bound plant.

Melvin Sines forfeited the $100 bond on the motor vehicle charge. All seven were represented by Marshall Levin, of Baltimore, an attorney for the Meat Cutters Union, Magistrate Maroney said.

During the disturbance a windshield of one of the trucks was smashed by a stone, although no one was injured.

The disturbance occurred when officials of the firm arrived to remove equipment from the Oakland plant. The trucks were later given police escort through Garrett County and Preston County, W. Va.

All seven former employees of the plant were dismissed from their jobs. The hearing opened yesterday about 10 a. m. and continued until about 3:30 p. m.
